Taking of Census Here To Mean Jobs for 22

Twenty-two "homefolks" will count noses in Fayette County beginning April 1, 1950, when a federal census is taken.

This was announced today by Paul J. Groeber, district supervisor for the Bureau of Census.

The enumerators will work under a crew leader who will be trained especially for the job.

If you're looking for one of the 22 jobs of calling from door-to-door, you can make application by writing to Groeber, Room 210, Post Office Building, Springfield. Wait until after Jan. 1, 1950, though.

But you will have to go to school for awhile. Helping out with the federal census actually means more than counting noses. There are a whole flock of questions all confidential which you must ask residents.

Right now things aren't set for sure. But it looks like enumerators will have to go to school for about a week to learn how to do a good job.

Groeber said they will be paid immediately after taking the course for the time they've gone to school. Then it will be up to them to apply their learning.

How Pay Is Figured

Pay for taking the census is figured on how many entries are made in census books. Each person in a family is an entry. Enumerators can hope to have big families on their calls.

Groeber estimates that it will take about two to three weeks to complete the census in Washington C. H. and about a month to wind it up in the rural areas of Fayette County.

An army of 140,000 census enumerators will start calling on people in every city, town and

Meanderings

By Wash Fayette

I saw a truck loaded with American white holly and scrub pine trees hurrying up North Fayette Street one day this week.

I did not get a peek at the license, but I was certain it was from Kentucky or Tennessee.

I was particularly interested in the holly trees, which were from four to 10 feet in height and must have been cut in the mountains of southern Kentucky or Tennessee.

I have seen the holly trees growing wild in the mountains of Kentucky and Tennessee and some fine specimens are located at Cumberland Falls, 18 miles southwest of Corbin, Ky.

It is rare that one sees entire holly trees in the market, and I believe they would be snapped up by buyers wherever they were offered, for if placed in water they would retain their freshness until after Christmas. This also holds good with the spruce, Scotch pine, cedar and other evergreens being offered in market at the present time.

Chilly Weather In on Schedule

Friday Is Coldest Day of Season

Folks hereabouts buttoned up their overcoats and stoked up the furnaces in their homes as the Weatherman's prediction of "the first cold wave of the season" materialized Friday.

The day dawned bright and clear and there was little wind to increase the sharpness of the "bite" of the chilly air—but it was the coldest night and day of the season.

The Soviet training was related by the army in response to questions arising out of statements by former air force Major G. Racey equipped C-47 two-engine transport plane went to the Russians under lend-lease. Jordan said he removed radar from four Soviet-bound planes at Great Falls, Mont.

Basic Information Sought

Basic population questions which will be asked each person include name, relation to head of household, race, sex, marital status, state or county of birth, citizenship status and employment status the preceding week of every person over 14 years old, and the occupation, industry and class of worker.

Every fifth person the government will ask what state and county he lived in a year earlier and whether he lived on a farm. It will ask country of birth of father and mother, highest grade of school attended and school attendance.

Every fifth person 14 or over will be asked the duration of employment and number of weeks worked in 1949, income received in 1949 from various sources, income received by relatives in the same household and whether men are war veterans.

Occupation Questions

Every 30th person 14 or over Uncle Sam will ask occupation, industry and class of work of persons who worked the previous year but were not working or looking for work the previous week. It will also ask whether he was ever married or married more than

Girl Under Arrest For 'Clipping' Man

CINCINNATI, Dec. 9 —(AP)—A pretty 21-year-old brunette was arrested today on a charge of grand larceny in connection with the hotel room theft early yesterday of $7,300 from Raymond Scharf of Kirkwood, Mo.

She promptly named a Cincinnati man as being the instigator of the theft.

Detective Chief Clem Merz said the girl, listed as Marie Howard, admitted taking the money from Scharf "after putting something in his glass."

Scharf reported yesterday that the money was taken after he and a girl he had met in Union terminal returned to a Cincinnati hotel from a round of Newport, Ky., night clubs.

Merz said the girl arrested today accused the man she named as getting most of the money. When officers arrested her they found $720 in the lining of her coat and $680 in Scharf's billfold.

Otterbein Home Barn Set Afire, Is Belief

LEBANON, Dec. 9 —(AP)—Fire Chief Clarence V. Dunham of Lebanon said today he was satisfied that a $30,000 barn fire at Otterbein home Nov. 12 was deliberately set.

Willis Peterson, an arson investigator from the state fire marshal's office, said two suspects had been questioned and two more were to be questioned next week.

Ohio's Icebox 7 Below

ZANESVILLE, Dec. 9 —(AP)—Down this way, the village of Cannelville is known as the "icebox of southern Ohio."

Why? Well, it was 10 degrees above zero at Zanesville this morning. At Cannelville, 18 miles south, it was seven degrees below zero.

The village, lying in a low spot, is traditionally colder than surrounding territory.

schedule from the northwest. The weather forecasters had been saying for two days that it was on its way.

No relief is in prospect for at least another 24 hours, and then it may not be much.

Indications were that the "late fall" had ended and that winter has come to stay.

The weather observers say some snow can be expected soon, too. But, it may come only in flurries such as those of Thursday.

On the same date last year, the thermometer registered 19 above.

But the people here are no worse off than those in the rest of Ohio and much of the rest of the country.

It was cold and wet over much of the country, an Associated Press survey showed temperatures were near zero or slightly below over most of Minnesota and Wisconsin and in the northern New England states. They were below freezing in the Texas Panhandle and in Arkansas and Tennessee.

Snow fell in eastern Washington, the eastern Dakotas, eastern Nebraska and western Iowa. There were snow flurries in Michigan, northern Ohio and western Pennsylvania.

Kansas and Oklahoma had freezing rain or drizzle. Rain fell in Texas.

The only areas where temperatures were near or above normal, the Weather Bureau said, were Florida, the immediate Gulf coast, south Texas and the far south-west. Some early morning readings included 8 below zero at Eau Claire, Wis., and -6 at Green Bay. The mercury was near zero at Caribou, Me., Portland, Me., and Concord, N. H., and Duluth, Minn.

Miami's early morning reading was 67 and Los Angeles reported 54.

Atomic Inquiry Is Emerging As Political Issue

Russians Trained In Radar as Allies, Army Points Out

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9 —(AP)—The secrets of America's wartime detection and gunfire radar were taught to a dozen Russian trainees at Fort Monmouth, N. J., in 1944 when the U. S. and the Soviets were allies.

This was affirmed by the army in the wake of a controversy over whether the Russians received radar-equipped planes under lend-lease.

Fort Monmouth is the signal corps training and development center near Red Bank. So far as could be determined, it was the only place where the army trained Russians in radar technique.

The army told reporters the Russians were trained in radar detection and tracking of low flying buzz bombs and aircraft, radar artillery direction, and "huff"—radar identification of planes as friend or foe.

The Soviet training was related by the army in response to questions arising out of statements by former air force Major G. Racey equipped C-47 two-engine transport plane went to the Russians under lend-lease. Jordan said he removed radar from four Soviet-bound planes at Great Falls, Mont.

POLITICS CENTERS CASE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9 —(AP)—House spy probes tracing reported uranium leaks to Russia turned their eyes toward Canada today amid indications that their inquiry may become a hot 1950 political issue.

Two investigators for the un-American activities committee were reported in Canada, where that 1,000 pounds of uranium compounds were shipped to Russia via Great Falls, Mont., in 1943.

Committee sources insisted these two developments were not related, but reports persisted that the committee may renew its once-

Slot Machine Raids Worry Ohio Lodges

AKRON, Dec. 9 —(AP)—Slot machine raids by state liquor agents were discussed last night at a meeting of representatives of private clubs, veterans' organizations and fraternal orders.

They wouldn't be quoted on the meeting's purpose but they did tell reporters informally they were worried about the raids.

Some clubs obtained a good part of their revenues from the one-armed bandits until state agents conducted raids in this area. The raids have put a damper on the slot business and treasuries have dwindled.

One representative said the idea of giving up liquor licenses was suggested. Clubs, he explained, he explained, could give up their licenses and install lockers for members in which private bottles could be kept. Presumably the liquor board wouldn't be so interested in slots operated by clubs not engaged in a liquor sideline.

19 Pigs Die in Fire

CHILLICOTHE, Dec. 9 —(AP)—Nineteen pigs burned to death in a fire on the Charles Miller farm near Hopetown.

Also destroyed were a 100-year-old barn, three sheds, machinery, 196 bushels of wheat and 18 tons of hay.

Miller estimated his total loss at $6,000. He thinks the fire was started by sparks from a tractor exhaust.

Merry-go-round Coming Soon

Hey kids! The merry-go-round is coming to town.

This word was put out today by the Chamber of Commerce.

C. E. McCarley, secretary of the C of C, received a letter from the Gooding Amusement Company in Columbus Friday.

The amusement company said it would be in town Monday and would be set up on the Court House lawn and ready for operations at 2 P. M. Tuesday.

McCarley said the merry-go-round would operate from 2 to 5 P. M. in the afternoon and from 6:30 until 9 P. M. evenings.

A policeman will be on duty to protect the youngsters and Santa Claus will make several appearances to find out what the youths want for Christmas.

The merry-go-round will operate through December 23 then will be taken down so that employees of the amusement company can be home in time for Christmas.

No charge is to be made for rides on the merry-go-round. It is financed out of funds raised in the Community Chest drive.

Carol Songfest Set For Sunday

Special Features For Young and Old

Residents of this community got a reminder today that they again will have a chance to join together in singing Christmas songs.

For almost a full hour, beginning at 4 P. M. Sunday, a program of group singing and entertainment has been scheduled for the community carol sing, to be held in the high school auditorium.

The Cecilians, an organization here interested in music, have issued an open invitation to all to come out Sunday and join in the spirit of Christmas, enjoyed in no better way than "all joining in."

There is something to please everyone, whether they are young or old. The Cecilians have promised the youngsters some special songs of their own—"White Christmas", "Jingle Bells," and "Santa Claus Is Coming To Town".

For the older folks there will be entertainment and group singing of old favorites.

Miss Margaret Gibson will preside at the piano and William Bowman will accompany on the organ.

William Clift and George Pensyl will lead the group in singing. Clift will direct a octet to sing which will present the numbers, "O Come All Ye Faithful" and "God Rest Ye Merry Gentlemen."

An octet, under the direction of Bowman, will sing "Behold A Branch Hath Flowered" by Praetorius and "Lo A Voice To Heaven Sounding" by Bortnianski. Hal Summers will sing "Oh Holy Night" by Adams.

In charge of the program for the Cecilians is Mrs. George Pensyl.

Three Are Saved From High Cliff As Rescue Fails

CINCINNATI, Dec. 9 —(AP)—Three persons marooned on a high cliff on one of Cincinnati's hills were rescued yesterday by firemen who hoisted a 70-foot extension ladder.

Mrs. Ruth Kolkmeyer, 37, and James McWhorter, 48, were trapped when they tried to rescue Danny Sullivan, 10. They were on the cliff 45 minutes in 33-degree temperature.

Danny decided he'd take a "short cut" home by scaling the cliff after a visit with a friend. Mrs. Kolkmeyer was the first to spot Danny's predicament and go to his rescue.

"Going up was easy," she said. "When I reached him I couldn't move. There wasn't anything to hold on to."

Next, McWhorter tried it—and he reported: "I just held the boy, who was shaking with cold. I couldn't move up or down either."

Danny's mother also was in a predicament when firemen finally brought the trio down the ladder.

With mixed relief and anger, she said: "I don't know whether to whip him or what."

Six-Point School Program Offered

COLUMBUS, Dec. 9 —(AP)—Superintendent George C. Beery of Franklin County schools was to be elected president of the Ohio Education Association at its 28th annual meeting here today.

He was nominated without opposition last night. Balloting will take place among delegates in the OEA's representative assembly today.

The some 600 delegates representing 42,000 Ohio teachers also will select 10 members for positions on the educational council.

The OEA executive committee last night suggested at six-point program, providing for:

President To Answer Eisenhower Statement

KEY WEST, Fla., Dec. 9 —(AP)—Intimates said today President Truman regards General Dwight D. Eisenhower an active candidate for the presidency.

They added that he regards Eisenhower's recent "hot dogs and beer" speech as part of the former chief of staff's buildup for the Republican presidential nomination.

The president, they continued, will answer Eisenhower in his "state of the union" message to Congress in January.

Charles G. Ross, the president's press secretary, said that speech will "fully expound the president's philosophies of government."

Mr. Truman's long-time feeling of admiration for Eisenhower as an army man and a builder of morale was emphasized by those who are close to him.

But the same persons say the president regards the ex-soldier turned educator as strictly an amateur at politics.

Not even the closest day-to-day conferees of the president can say whether he will seek the nomination again in 1952.

Most of them tell reporters he has been more than a little concerned by Eisenhower's recent speeches, in which the general has appeared to line up with former Secretary of State James F. Byrnes in criticism of the Truman "fair deal."

The president, it was made clear here, is drafting a "state of the union" message which will reiterate his demands for a "fair deal" program. It will emphasize the very proposals at which Eisenhower and Byrnes are directing their ammunition.

The president, it was disclosed, will renew his insistence upon passage of:

1. His civil rights program.

2. A liberalized displaced persons bill.

3. A national health program.

4. Legislation expanding social security benefits.

5. The Brannan health program. These and other fair deal proposals have drawn the ire of both Byrnes and Eisenhower.

Budget Prospects

Budget director Frank Pace said after a conference with President Truman today he saw no prospect of a balanced budget next year without an increase in taxes.

Pace told a news conference: "The probability of a balanced budget in 1951 is not great—lacking new taxes."

Pace said he was not aware whether Mr. Truman will ask higher taxes in his "state of the union" message.

The administration's budget, which goes to Congress in January, Pace made clear, will require continued deficit financing unless new taxes are levied.

Mr. Truman has said he saw no way of wiping out the prospective deficit for this fiscal year of $5,500,000,000 without higher taxes.

He is being urged to recommend increased levies on corporate profits.

Pace would not forecast the size of the new budget—saying a final figure had not been arrived at—but he said it would not exceed $45,000,000,000 compared with a revised budget of $43,500,000,000 for the current fiscal year.

Chiang Flees To Mountains

TAIPEH, Formosa, Dec. 9 —(AP)—Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek, titular leader of nationalist China, flew to Sichang, Sikang, in the mountain fastness of inland southwestern China today.

His flight preceded reports received here in this new provisional capital of China that Communist troops were within 60 miles of Chengtu. Until yesterday Chengtu was China's fourth capital this year. Chengtu airfields were packed with Chinese hoping to escape the approaching Reds.

The nationalist government started functioning here today. The nationalists face grave economic problems here. The island's normal population of 6,000,000 has been swelled to 7,000,000 persons by an influx of nationalists — army, navy, air and political — from the mainland. The island is not able and does not want to support large mainland forces. Many of the islanders, in fact, still want to be a part of Japan or independent of the Chinese mainlanders.

Payroll Padding Punished--Wife Wants His Seat

Rep. Thomas Shows Effects of Strain But Unemotional

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9 —(AP)—Rep. J. Parnell Thomas got six to 18 months in jail and a $10,000 fine today for cheating the government by "padding" his office payroll.

Immediately after the sentence was pronounced, Thomas' wife announced:

"I intend to seek the congressional seat about to be vacated by my husband."

Mrs. Thomas told reporters her husband's resignation is in the mails.

Thomas is 54. His wife is a little younger.

Federal Judge Alexander Holtzoff gave an ear-burning lecture to Thomas along with the jail term and the fine.

Record To Help

He told the little man who seven times was elected to the House as a Republican from New Jersey that he knew he had a good record in the first World War and had done "much good work" on Congress as chairman of the House un-American activities committee.

But the judge said sternly: "These can't properly be considered mitigating circumstances."

In fact, he said, as chairman of a congressional committee, Thomas "had a duty to set an example of upright living."

Holtzoff concluded: "J. Parnell Thomas, it is the judgement of this court that you be imprisoned in an institution to be determined by the attorney general for a term of not less than six months and not more than 18 months, and that you be fined $10,000 and that you stand committed until the fine is paid."

Lawyer's Plea Ignored

Thomas' lawyer, William H. Collins, had pleaded with the judge not to punish the congressman by jail and fine.

Collins described Thomas as "broken in body and spirit."

Standing before Judge Holtzoff, Thomas did, indeed, seem to bear scant resemblance physically to the rosy-cheeked little man who was once the gavel-cracking chairman of the spy-hunting House un-American activities committee.

Weakened by a long illness, his face was drawn and he had the look of a man exhausted by extreme weariness.

But Thomas took the sentence with no show of emotion or change of expression.

Mrs. Thomas, the one-time Amelia Wilson Stiles of Mt. Vernon, N. Y., was almost cheerful as she talked to reporters outside the court after the case was over and announced her intention of seeking the congressional seat her husband is leaving for a jail cell.

Special Election

The New Jersey attorney general has ruled that there will have to be a special election to fill Thomas unexpired term, it runs to the end of 1950.

Mrs. Thomas told reporters she is 48. She is the mother of two children, J. Parnell Jr., and Stiles Thomas.

Mrs. Thomas said she has had no previous political experience.

In Thomas' trial the government produced testimony that Thomas pocketed more than $8,000 from salary "kickbacks" fake employees he had put on his office payroll and on the payroll of the un-American activities committee.

Thomas put himself at the mercy of the court a week ago Wednesday. Documented evidence of financial corruption, tracked down by the FBI, has piled up against him in the two and a half day trial.

So Thomas withdrew his plea of not guilty and gave up fighting the charges against him. Reports circulated yesterday that Thomas intended to resign from Congress even before the sentence.

He and his former secretary, Miss Helen Campbell, were accused of plotting to cheat the government by putting on Thomas' office payroll two women who wouldn't work but would kick back their salary checks to the congressman.

Two from County Conferring on Study of Youth

Committee Here
To Help Prepare
For Nation Confab

Two representatives from Fayette County are now attending a district meeting of the Ohio Commission on Children and Youth in Columbus.

When they come back they will be prepared to start machinery turning in the county which will be a part of a nationwide project, the climax of which will be the "Midcentury White House Conference on Children and Youth."

This will be the fifth in a series of such conferences that have been called by presidents of the United States since the beginning of the century.

The basic purpose of the conferences is to pause a moment to determine what should be done throughout the nation to improve the mental, physical and social health of children.

In calling the conference, President Truman has given the opportunity to ask themselves this question: "Are we, the richest nation in the world, doing all we should to give our children a fair deal?"

In order to prepare for the conference, the president has appointed a national committee of widely representative leaders to direct the task of finding out what the nation's children have and what they need.

In order to implement this appraisal, state commissions like the one in Ohio have been set up. At the base of the whole project will be the "County Committees on Children and Youth for the White House Conference."

Albert Cobb county agricultural agent and Mrs. George Burke, president of the Wilson PTA, are attending the all-day meeting Friday in Columbus in order to obtain information for setting up a Fayette County committee.

This committee, which will be picked by a chairman appointed by the Ohio Commission, will consist of some professional people, but mostly lay citizens representing various interests of the people in the county.

This would include representatives from such organizations as PTA's, public health agencies and youth groups like the 4-H.

Probably by January, the committee will be ready to take action in Fayette County.

This will consist of finding out just what services are available to Fayette County's children, studying the environment in which they grow up, ascertaining where services are needed, promoting community consciousness of children's problems and planning a follow-up program for the recommendations of the Mid-Century White House Conference.

Booklets to Guide In Subject Choice

Students who will be attending grades eight through 11 in the fall of 1950 will find their path leading to proper selection of courses a little easier to hew.

It will be easier because of a booklet which is now in the process of preparation by high school officials. The booklet will have a summary of all subjects offered and explain how each can best serve the student for a chosen vocation or future training.

Arthur Wolters, principal at WHS, said some 1,000 copies of the booklet will be printed and distributed to both parents and students.

The distribution will be made sometime after the first part of the year to allow parents and students plenty of time in deciding what courses the student should take when he or she returns to school in the fall.

ENGINEER RESIGNS
HILLSBORO—Claude West, Highland County Engineer, has resigned effective January 1.

Mainly About People

Mr. and Mrs. Orville Strietenberg, 1030 Gregg Street, are the parents of a nine pound son, born at their home Friday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Mitchell, 637 Harrison Street, are the parents of an eleven pound son, born at their home Friday morning. The infant has not been named.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Hidy, 212 Grand Avenue, are announcing the birth of a four pound, fourteen ounce daughter, Ronda Kay, in Greenfield Municipal Hospital, Thursday morning.

Miss Peggy Miller, freshman student at Miami University, Oxford, has been elected president of the Junior Panhellenic Association on the campus. Miss Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ervin P. Miller, is a member of Pi Phi sorority.

Mr. W. M. Witt, of near Octa, is confined to his home where he is suffering from hip and back injuries sustained in an accident while at work on his farm a week ago. His misfortune will necessitate his being confined to his home for several weeks.

Mrs. Lloyd Hall was brought from Mt. Carmel Hospital, Columbus, to her home in Jeffersonville, Thursday afternoon in the Alvin G. Little ambulance. She is recovering from serious injuries suffered in an automobile accident near Jeffersonville, about a week ago.

abandoned effort to obtain records of a court action in New York by the Canadian government in connection with uranium sales.

Louis J. Russell, senior committee investigator, has said the probe of the Canadian angle has been "reactivated."

Russell is one of two agents committee sources said left for Canada Wednesday night after the committee had questioned Lt. Gen. Leslie R. Groves, retired, wartime head of the United States' atomic bomb project.

Investigators are due to return before the committee's next hearing December 19, when two former minor officials connected with the lend-lease program are to be quizzed.

On that date, also, the committee may reach a final decision on former vice-president Henry A. Wallace's request for a hearing.

Wallace made his request after Radio Commentator Fulton Lewis, Jr., named him as a source of pressure to expedite wartime atomic shipments to Russia. Wallace denied that.

Last night Wallace objected to the committee's delay in hearing him. He told the committee the delay made the committee "a party to this attempt at character assassination."

Grain Market

CHICAGO, Dec. 9. — (AP) — Easiness in soybeans and lard toward the close provided the only real trend in commodities on the Board of Trade today. Trends in major grains were mixed with some contracts showing losses and some making gains.

With loose lard quoted around the lowest level since 1941, lard futures countered moderate hedging pressure. Relatively slight declines carried January, March, May and July contracts to new seasonal lows. Soybeans sank in sympathy with fats and oils.

Mills gave wheat a little support, lifting futures against reported sales of 116,272 sacks of hard wheat flour to the army quartermaster. New crop deliveries weak yesterday, showed more firmness today despite light rain and snow in the winter wheat belt.

Financial Market

NEW YORK, Dec. 9. — (AP) — The stock market found a bottom soon after an early setback today. Losses were limited to fractions in most cases, with only a spattering of leaders down as much as a point. An assortment of stocks attempted a comeback at intervals but without pronounced success.

Activity continued at a high level although business was frequently done in fits and starts.

Many peoples of the word find eating of insects essential to surviving.

• Every Man on His Own

By ROY L. SMITH

It is one of the fundamental principles of good religion, as well as of democracy, that in a very large part of his life every man is on his own.

This is not a very popular doctrine in a time when the government is being made responsible for solving the personal problems of its citizens. But it is one which has the sanction of history and the force of destiny.

The Historical Situation

The prophet Jeremiah lived in a time when all the ancient life and civilization of the Hebrew people was breaking up. Kings, with incredible folly, had precipitated a series of political events which could have but one possible outcome—complete destruction. The people, grown apostate, were indifferent to the ancient standards of morality. A terrible cancer was eating away at the vitals of the nation.

A man of the times who had even less of a statesman's viewpoint than that of Isaiah could hardly have missed seeing the inevitable. The end was not far off. The last mad dash for oblivion had begun.

The Prophet's Faith

It was the complete conviction of Jeremiah that nothing could save the nation except a miracle. It was also his profound conviction that God would not allow the beautiful experiment of a chosen people to fail utterly. But how could he save a nation intent on self-destruction?

The prophet solved the problem by moving his base of operation over to a new position. The king and his court, he was convinced, were doomed. But ideas, convictions, and faith all have a vitality that is utterly independent of majorities, multitudes, and thrones.

The individual is independent of his nation, or even of his generation. If he holds within the sacred keeping of his own soul the spirit of the Most High, he can rise above the fate of the masses.

Every man has it within his power to incorporate into his life those qualities which make him superior to his environment. Neither heredity, nor surroundings, nor social customs, nor mores, nor any other thing is able to separate a man from his own character if that is his chief concern and his first responsibility.

This is the doctrine that the Christian Church must begin preaching again if it is to save the world.

Direct Access to God

When the Hebrews came out of the wilderness and set up as a nation in the promised land, every man was essential to the state. His loyalty to God was judged by his loyalty to the race. This had the effect of making his destiny a part of that of the kingdom. If the kingdom failed, then the individual perished. If the nation survived the individual was saved.

Good religion argues that every man must stand on his own feet, assume his own responsibility, be judged by his own deeds, and be entitled to respect on the basis of his own worth.

The Sunday School lesson for December 11: "Jeremiah Teaches Personal Religion," Jeremiah 8:4-7; 26:31.

This means that men are not to be judged according to the race or nation of which they are members, but according to the quality of their own lives. It means that individuals are not to be weighed according to the families into which they were born, but according to the use they make of their opportunities and the strength of character they develop. It means that a man's salvation does not depend upon the church to which he has given some vows, but the faith he maintains within his own heart.

The Solo Flyer

An army colonel, in charge of training young pilots, stood watching a youngster take a plane aloft. He stared intently after him, not a detail of the boy's handling of the plane escaping his attention. At last as the lad levelled off and started across country for his destination, the colonel turned about, started for headquarters, and said: "Well, he's on his own now. We have given him the best training possible; put him into the finest plane built, and equipped him with every instrument known to flying science. It's up to him."

Life and good religion are something like that.

Electric Water System and "Automatic Watering"

INCREASE
PROFIT

Louis Ormes, herdsman on the Robert M. Ellis dairy farm, R. R. 5, Wilmington, Ohio, watching one of the thirty accredited Jersey cows in the Ellis herd drinking from an automatic watering cup.

WHEN DAIRY COWS have plenty of fresh, clean, drinking water, milk production increases 10 to 15%. Average annual butterfat production goes up as much as 430 to 475 pounds per cow, making the entire dairy operation more profitable by increasing income over feed costs.

The average dairy cow will drink more than twice as much water when automatic water cups are provided, as she will when turned out twice daily to drink from an outside water tank. One automatic watering cup located between each two cows offers them all the water they want while eating, and during the night.

Electric Water System Soon Pays for Itself

Electric water systems are made in both shallow well and deep well types. Electric pumps can switch on automatically to keep the storage tank filled; from there, the water flows under pressure wherever it is needed. For advice on sizes and types of electric water systems and automatic watering cup installations, see your County Agricultural Agent or the Farm Representative of The Dayton Power and Light Company serving your neighborhood.

Bricker's Views Regarding a New Party

It would be interesting to know just how many conservative Fayette County members of the two major political parties, are in agreement with Senator John W. Bricker's recent statement that there ought to be a merger of these conservatives.

It has been apparent that most of the conservative Republicans and conservative southern Democrats are thinking alike on many issues and have voted together many times in Congress.

Recently a certain prominent Washington C. H. Democrat when accused by another Democrat and ardent New Dealer of being a Republican in his thinking because he opposed some of Truman's proposals, declared with a considerable vigor, "I hope I am a good American favorable to the preservation of our present form of government before I am either a Democrat or a Republican." That sounded like a pretty good answer.

The conservatives of both Republican and Democratic parties are much nearer to each other than, for example, such Republicans as the conservative Bricker and the ultra liberal Senator Wayne L. Morris of Oregon whom Bricker singles out as an example of the kind of Republican party member that he, for one, could well do without.

To sweeten the taste of the suggested new party mixture, Bricker is even willing to have the Republicans give up the old party name, which is distasteful to many southerners. This was done once before in Republican history. Abraham Lincoln ran for re-election not as a Republican but as a Union candidate, with a Democrat for vice-president, Andrew Johnson.

The greatest obstacle to starting a new party is the legal difficulty of getting on the ballot. The presidential elections are conducted under state election laws, and the laws of many states make it hard to get a new party listed. In 1948 Henry Wallace's Progressives were kept off the ballot in a number of states. It takes years to get a new party well enough established to be on all state ballots.

One alternative might be to nominate a combination ticket, consisting of a Republican and a southerner of the conservative school. Which would get the presidential nomination might be quite a question. It is perhaps worth remembering, however, that the highest popular vote ever polled by the Republican party was in the year when it nominated Wendell Willkie, a former Democrat.

Byrnes and 1952

James F. Byrnes, former secretary of state and justice of the Supreme Court, as well as past holder of a larger number of important offices than any man now in public life except possibly Chief Justice Fred M. Vinson, is alarmed at the growth of government expenditure and increase in the number of functions. Last June he warned of the perils of "statism", and in a speech before the Southern Governors Conference at Biloxi, Miss., he has repeated the admonition.

Byrnes' attack on the administration is from a different angle than those made by the Dixiecrats. They emphasize the race question, while Byrnes confines himself to national issues. Nevertheless, it is supposed the Dixiecrats might welcome him to head their ticket, if their fiasco of 1948 has not discouraged them. Byrnes would carry more weight nationally, because of his wider reputation, than did Gov. J. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina, the States Rights standard bearer in 1948, whose name was scarcely known outside of his state. But after the honors heaped upon him by two Democratic presidents, Byrnes may not wish to join the bolters, and may confine himself to disapproval of the trend of national policy.

The biggest minor problem of hospitals, some of them report, has to do with smoking by visitors, especially in wards or in rooms with more than one patient. The smoke-laden air does the patient no good, and there is always the danger of fire. It would seem reasonable that visitors could restrain themselves for the short time they are calling on their relatives or friends.

This world seems to be growing so small that some people say it looks as if we'll have to look for another one before long.

Despite medical progress the common cold is likely to remain common for awhile.

No one is free from a sigh of envy when he sees a new car going by.

Stiffness of Joints Common in Elderly

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.
AS people grow older, lime or calcium is often deposited in or around the joints, a situation which may result in a great deal of pain, stiffness and, at times, even disability.

Where pain is severe and long continued, and movement very limited, operation has been suggested as the surest method of giving prompt and permanent relief.

Calcium Deposits
The most common location for calcium deposits is in the shoulder. The symptoms are due to inflammation in the affected area. The pain comes on gradually, even without any preceding injury. Finally, there is an almost constant aching, made worse by movement, pressure, or the application of heat. Sometimes the joint catches during movement. The condition may be diagnosed with certainty by X-ray examination, since calcium deposits are visible in the X-ray plate.

Blood Supply
In some cases the symptoms may clear up without any particular treatment. This occurs because the inflammation increases the blood supply to the affected part and hastens the absorption of the calcium deposits.

In other cases the pain may continue for months with limiting of the movements and wasting of the muscles. Frequently these calcium deposits occur along a tendon or in a bursa which is a sac containing fluid over the joint. In many cases, piercing the deposits with a needle may cause the condition to clear up.

Methods of Treatment
Prior to carrying out an operation, it may be advisable to try other methods of treatment, such as the application of heat or ice packs. It is not advisable to keep the part immovable since it may cause stiffness in the joint. Exercise may be helpful in restoring movement after the acute symptoms have cleared up.

Drugs may be given by the physician to relieve pain. It is also suggested that large doses of vitamin B may be helpful. In some cases, X-ray treatments have been found beneficial.

Calcium deposits may occasionally occur in the hip, elbow, wrist, hand, knee or foot.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
J. H.: I have an ache in the hips and knees. Could this be due to prostate trouble?

Answer: It is not likely that the condition is due to a prostate disorder. It might come from disorders of the circulation or of the joints. It is advisable that you have a careful study made to determine the source of your trouble.

More Peace with Common Touch

NEW YORK—(AP)—"The trouble with the United Nations," said William J. (Boxer) Sheridan, taxi-driver, Brooklyn booster and student of world affairs, "is limousines."

"I mean those big, black, expensive limousines that the delegates ride in, with the little flag of their country fluttering on the right front fender, and the liveried chauffeur, and the white wall tires. AAAAAHHH!"

"Well," I said, "you could hardly expect such distinguished foreign visitors to ride in jalopies. I mean, they have a position to uphold, a certain—AH—dignity, a—"

"AAAAHHH!" The gray hair on the back of Boxer's neck bristled. "Position. Dignity. That's just the trouble.

"If I had my way your fine delegates would ride to and from their great meetings on the subway, cheek-by-jowl with the rest of us. Yes, and at rush hour, too, all piled in together like clothespins in a basket.

"Then," said Boxer, shifting his vocal gears into high, "maybe some of that hifalutin' nonsense about 'national sovereignty' and suchlike would be jiggled out of them, and they could get down to brass tacks."

I thought it over while the cab whizzed through a three-inch gap between two Fifth Avenue buses.

"You mean," I said, "that a diplomat runs the risk of losing the common touch—?"

"Right on the button, pal. All by himself in the back seat of a limousine, a guy is a big shot. He's got to think in big terms—

About What Eleanor Wrote of Al

One of the most amazing passages in Eleanor Roosevelt's book on what she remembers is the reference to Al Smith who hand-picked her husband, Franklin, to be governor of the state of New York and got his great, good friend, John J. Raskob, to put up the money to make it possible. This is what she said:

"There are two kinds of snobishness. That of the man who has had a good many opportunities and looks down on those who lack them is usually recognized by all.

The other kind of snobishness is rarely understood, yet it is real. It is that of the self-made man, who glories in his success in overcoming difficulties and admires greatly people who have achieved the things he considers of importance.

Governor Smith, for instance, had a great deal of respect for

Law Affects The Teen-agers

Employers Notified Of Regulations

Teen-age boys and girls seeking temporary and part-time jobs during the holiday season are subject to the child labor provisions of the Fair Labor Standards Act if they work in an establishment commerce.

This warning was issued to employers today by William S. Singley, regional director of the wage and hour public contracts divisions, U. S. Department of Labor. Singley's region includes Kentucky, Michigan and Ohio.

He pointed out that even some retail establishments, if they produce goods for interstate commerce and ship them across state lines, come within the child labor provisions of the Act.

"In all establishments subject to the child labor provisions, a 16-year minimum applies to work in the department where manufacturing is done," he said. "And the minimum age of 18 applies in hazardous occupations such as serving as a truck driver or helper, operating elevators and other power-driven woodcutting machines."

Although 14 and 15-year old youngsters may be employed in certain jobs and under certain restrictions, Singley stressed the seriousness of the problem concerned with their employment.

"These growing boys and girls usually have all they can carry in their school work and home chores," he said. When such young workers are hired, special care should be exercised to see that they do not work for long hours nor in unhealthful surroundings nor in tasks that are unsuited to their strength," Singley said.

In establishments subject to the child labor provisions of the Act, he pointed out, 14 and 15-year-olds—but none younger—may be employed outside of school hours in certain non-manufacturing jobs for no more than 3 hours a day or 18 a week when school is in session nor more than 8 hours a day or 40 hours a week when school is not in session.

In addition, the employment of these 14 and 15-year old children must be between 7 A. M., and 7 P. M.

Sales Tax Stamps Show Boost Here

Fayette County again was one of the few counties in this area which showed an increase in sale of sales tax receipts, for the week ending November 29.

Clinton, Greene, Highland, and Ross counties showed drops while Madison and Pickaway counties showed increases.

Fayette sales were $4,636.35 compared with $4,330.37 a year ago.

Total sales in the county since July 1 were $127,185.89 compared with $132,238.33 for the same period last year.

For the week ending Nov. 29, sales in the state were $2,278,390 compared with $2,205,093 a year ago.

Early Mailing Is Being Urged

Wrap 'Em Well Says Postmaster Here

Still wrapping Christmas gift packages? Better mail them quick, or you'll be a belated Santa.

Postmaster W. E. Passmore announced today that Yuletide parcel post should all be in the mail by Saturday, Dec. 10 to assure delivery before Christmas.

"If packages aren't ready until later, use the new Air Parcel Post service," he urged.

Christmas packages have been flooding into the post office for the last week. Local cancellations normally average 5000 pieces of mail per day. Now they're up to about 8500 per day.

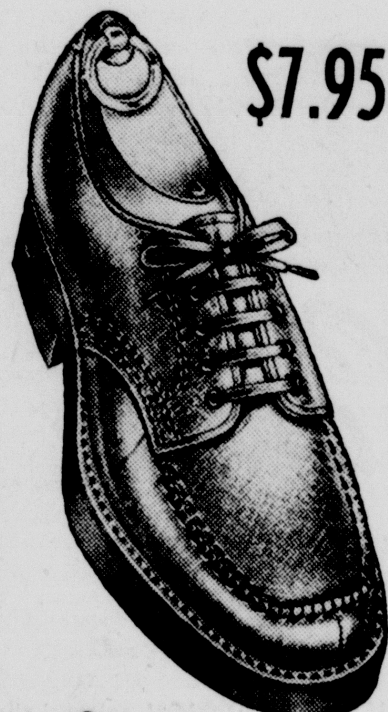

The postmaster is having his usual seasonal headaches with fragile gift boxes that fall apart in the mails. "Somebody tied up a bottle of perfume in very thin cardboard this morning," he reports. "It got on the bottom of a pile. Now we have five sacks of fragrantly scented gifts to deliver."

All packages should be wrapped in heavy corrugated cardboard, the postmaster says. He suggests repeating the address on a card inside the package, in case the outer wrapping becomes torn.

"After your packages are out of the way," the postmaster advises, you should get busy immediately addressing your Christmas cards.

"Greetings for out-of-state should be mailed by December 15, and cards for local delivery should be deposited at least the Thursday before Christmas."

Fichter Claims Are Disputed

More Heat Applied In Grange Feud

NEWARK, Dec. 9 —(AP)—One of the chief opponents of the regime of State Grange Master Joseph W. Fichter took his turn at bat today in the continuing Licking County Grange dispute.

The Fichter opponent, Wade Moreland, insisted that proof of the truth of 50 charges originally filed against Fichter was available at the time they were filed.

The charges subsequently were withdrawn. Earlier this week, Fichter referred to the charges as unfounded. He said the National Grange master said they were not substantiated.

The anti-Fichter group filed 17 new charges against Fichter a few days ago. The charges were contained in a letter to the National Grange secretary.

Proof of the truth of these charges, said Moreland, also is available. He said the only reason the original charges were not substantiated by the anti-Fichter Committee in Licking County is "that the substantiation never was asked."

Moreland also attacked a portion of the Fichter statement implying that his enemies were against legislation helping the farmer. Moreland said he personally wrote most of the farm programs adopted by the 1948 session of the Ohio State Grange.

Moreland said he is a paid investigator of the Ohio anti-Fichter Committee. He said his salary is paid by voluntary contributions.

Homesick Cow Stolen; Rustler Apprehended

WASHINGTON —(AP)—Harry C. Barton, of Sandy Spring, noticed the cow he just bought seemed homesick. He noticed also that its horns drooped. And he read that a cow with droopy horns had been stolen.

Checking up, sure enough he found that he had bought a stolen cow. He got his money back. The rustler was traced, confessed, and blamed it all on the fact that he had ulcers, seven children and a house that burned down.

"But if it wasn't for drinking, I wouldn't have taken a single cow," he said.

Fortnightly Luncheon Bridge At Washington Country Club Is Largely Attended

A large number of ladies attended the regular fortnightly luncheon bridge at the Washington Country Club on Thursday and were greeted by a gracious group of hostesses with Mrs. Edwin P. Suntheimer as chairman assisted by Mrs. Glenn Pine, Mrs. James Ford, Mrs. Ethelyn James and Mrs. Edward Cobb. Gay Christmas decorations made up the festive and cherry atmosphere of the club lounge with sprigs of pine, cones and red candles in clusters, on mantels and at vantage points throughout and a miniature lighted Christmas tree was especially admired by the guests.

The tempting two course luncheon was served at one o'clock at large round tables each centered with clever Christmas scenes. Later eleven tables of bridge were at play and at the conclusion of the progressive game attractive awards were presented Mrs. J. Earl McLean who was the holder of high score, Mrs. Frank Reichelderfer second while third went to Mrs. Frank Littler. Mrs. K. C. Reiff of Hornell, New York was included as a guest.

Store Employees Are Guests At Christmas Party

The J. C. Penney Company associates and guests, enjoyed their annual Christmas party and gift exchange on Thursday evening at the "Fayette Club" near Madison Mills. Throughout the club Christmas decorations prevailed, and the two long tables seating the group for a delicious steak dinner further carried out the cheery Yuletide suggestions and were lighted at intervals with tall red tapers.

Later a gift exchange was enjoyed and special gifts were presented by the associates of the store to Mr. Gilbert C. Crouse, manager and Mr. Kenneth Fudge, assistant manager. Dancing and cards rounded out a most pleasant evening.

Those enjoying the event were Manager and Mrs. Gilbert C. ### Gleaners Class Christmas Party

The annual Christmas party and gift exchange of the Gleaners Class of McNair Church was held at the home of Mrs. Clarence Campbell Thursday evening with twenty members present.

Mrs. Campbell, class president, conducted the brief business session and Mrs. Frank Thompson was devotional leader.

She read the Christmas Story, found in St. Luke, and led in prayer. Following the usual reports officers for the coming year elected and resulted in Mrs. W. A. Armbrust being chosen as president, Mrs. Clifford Foster, vice president; Mrs. Roy Hays second vice president; Mrs. Willis McCoy secretary; Mrs. Bruce Hidy assistant secretary. Plans were made to donate a Christmas basket to a needy family, and Mrs. Bessie Sanders led in a Christmas prayer. The usual benediction closed the meeting. The exchange of gifts was enjoyed around a table decorated in bright Christmas colors and later the hostess invited the members to the dining room where tempting refreshments were served at one long table and two smaller tables, centered with large arrangements of chrysanthemums. Places were found with place cards suggestive of Christmas. Mrs. Campbell was assisted during the evening by Mrs. W. A. Armbrust.

CCL Members Christmas Party At Helfrich Home

Members of Beta Circle Child Conservation League, numbering twenty five and one guest were entertained at the home of Mrs. Michael Helfrich on the Palmer Road for the annual Christmas party and gift exchange. Outdoor decorations as well as those in the rooms for the occasion were Christmas bells, wreaths holding candles, pine branches and other Yuletide suggestions made up the festive atmosphere. The business meeting was conducted by the president, Mrs. Glenn Heistand, during which the usual reports were heard and accepted. Two new members Mrs. Herschel Frazier and Mrs. Jean Travis were welcomed into the club.

It was decided to distribute baskets to needy families and the committee named in charge is Mrs. Carl Wilt, Mrs. Lawrence Hunter and Mrs. Harold Minshall. The meeting closed with the group repeating the Twenty Third Psalm. The exchange of gifts was the highlight of the evening and was enjoyed around a brilliantly decorated and lighted Christmas tree. Games were later enjoyed and prizes were awarded. A tempting refreshment course was served by the hostess and her assistants Mrs. Glenn Heistand, Mrs. Lawrence Hunter and Mrs. Billie Jamison carrying out Christmas suggestions.

Elmwood Aid Christmas Party Held Thursday

Beautiful arrangements of chrysanthemums in late fall colors, enhanced with gay Christmas suggestions, were used throughout the home of Mrs. Sam Coil, on Thursday afternoon, when she entertained twenty eight members of the Elmwood Ladies Aid and included six guests.

A bountiful covered dish luncheon was served buffet fashion at the noon hour and small tables seating the group for a most congenial luncheon hour, were centered with groups of miniature choir boys, angels and Santa Claus candles.

In the absence of the president, Mrs. Grover Taylor, the afternoon meeting was presided over by the vice president, Mrs. Earl Scott, who also conducted the impressive devotional period. She read the Christmas story from St. Luke, and closed with prayer.

The yearly reports of the secretary, Mrs. Martha Frey, and the treasurer, Mrs. Wert Bush, were given and approved. The new officers were installed by Mrs. Scott as follows: president Mrs. A. H. Newbrey; vice president Mrs. Carson Maddux; secretary Mrs. Harley Stackhouse; assistant secretary Mrs. Clara Lauderman; treasurer Mrs. Floyd Tracey.

Mrs. Newbrey assumed charge of the meeting and appointed Mrs. Clyde Smith on the card and flower committee, and Mrs. Billie Wilson as press reporter.

Mrs. John Rhoads was welcomed as a new member of the society and the meeting was dismissed with the benediction.

A gift exchange was enjoyed around a beautifully decorated and lighted Christmas tree, and the group remained for television shows.

Mrs. Coil was assisted in the

Bible Class Enjoys Christmas Party

Mr. and Mrs. John J. Puckett were host and hostess to the Berean Bible Class of the South Side Church of Christ Thursday evening, for the annual Christmas party.

Due to the absence of the President Mr. Willis Taylor the vice-president presided at the short business session. He was also devotional leader and the members quoted the story of the birth of Christ from the book of Luke. Mrs. Thomas Snyder led in prayer. The well-loved Christmas Carols were sung by the group. In his comments Mr. Taylor stressed the fact that Christmas has been so commercialized and that we should remember Christ in the center of all our activities, giving, etc. and put Christ where he belongs. In written messages X (which means an unknown quantity) should not be used in the place of Christ in Christmas.

During the social hour Mr. Puckett entertained the guests to two entertaining contests which were much enjoyed. The highlight of the evening was the drawing of Christmas toys which were brought by each one. After the opening of the gifts they were re-wrapped to be sent to the Mountain Mission School for orphans, at Grundy, Va.

Mrs. Puckett assisted by Mrs. Dorothy Price served a most festive dessert course to the sixteen members and guests present.

Luncheon Precedes WSCS Meeting

The annual Christmas meeting of the Bloomingburg WSCS was held at the church Wednesday afternoon and was preceded by a covered dish luncheon with twenty-three members and three guests present. Tables seating the group for the tempting meal served buffet fashion, were decorated holly, pine cones and red candles suggestive of the Yuletide season.

Following a most pleasant luncheon hour the meeting was called to order and was presided over by the vice president, Mrs. John Gibbeault. The usual reports were heard and approved, and the program followed in charge of the leader Mrs. Homer Smith.

She presented Mrs. Guy E. Tucker who read "The Christmas Story" found in Luke. The hymn "O Come All Ye Faithful," a Christmas poem, "Christmas Tonight" was given by Mrs. Cecil Thacker. "The Christmas Message," was read by Mrs. Howard Nessell. Another hymn "Joy To The World," and an article "The Gospel Story of Christmas" was read by Mrs. Ollie Plummer. A carol "Hark The Herald Angels Sing," two vocal solos, "Have You Ever Seen The Star?" and "O Star of Bethlehem." An article, "Christmas Gifts" was read by Mrs. Spencer Mahan, and Mrs. Charles Cunningham read the article "Outdoor Christmas Trees In The Congo" Mrs. Gay Allemang read, "White Christmas Offerings" and "Christmas On The Reservation" was read by Mrs. Roy Oswald. "Santa In Japan," was read by Mrs. J. M. Allemang. The carol "Silent Night," closed the program. Gifts were exchanged and a social hour followed. Guests included were Mrs. Earl Rooks, Mrs. Cecil Thacker and Miss Florence Purcell.

The Rodgers have eight children, Laurel of Chicago, Ill., Harold, Hugh and Drusilla of this city, Lewis, Jr., of Greenfield, Raymond of Good Hope, Mrs. Leo Dodd of New Vienna and Mrs. S. L. Morris of Zanesville. There are 26 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Fox Bites Ross County Resident

Austin Fuller, of Norman Hill Road, Ross County, is receiving treatment to prevent rabies as result of having been attacked and bitten by a fox delivered to be suffering from the rabies.

Fuller was attacked while obtaining wood from near his home, and the fox followed him inside his home and bit him. It was killed with a shovel, but not before it had sunk its teeth in Fuller's leg.

Fuller burned the fox in a heating stove and no test could be made by authorities to ascertain if the fox had the rabies.

Foxes usually are wild and run from a man, and only rabid foxes attack human beings, it is stated.

Christmas Party Set for Kiddies

Beta Sigma Phi Sorority Sponsor

Christmas is to be made a little brighter and a little cheerier for about 50 children here for whom the Yuletide might otherwise be only another drab and sad holiday.

Plans for another gay party for a group of kiddies of pre-school age today were taking form under the direction of committee of the Beta Sigma Phi sorority chapter here.

The sorority held its first one last year. The party is to be held in the Dayton Power & Light Co. building second floor club room the afternoon of Dec. 22.

With the help of the Red Cross the sorority is making out a list of children of underprivileged families. Members of the sorority will call for the kiddies and take them home after the party. Invitations will be sent to the little guests beforehand, so their mothers will have them ready.

While the girls of the Beta Sigma Phi are making the arrangements and will be both sponsors and hostesses, they are getting some help in putting the party on.

There will be toys for the little guests and they are to be served refreshments, too, just like at any other Christmas party.

Most of the toys are to come from the Salvation Army, a sorority spokesman said. Gifts of toys for the children by anyone else will be acceptable, the spokesman said—but she made it plain that the sorority was not asking for any outside help.

Soft drinks are to come from the Fayette Coca Cola Bottling Co. and ice cream from the Cudahy Packing Co.

Of course, Santa Claus will be there—in the person of well-rounded Robert Terhune.

Mrs. Frank Hook is the chairman of the general committee.

Court Rulings Give Prisoners Renewed Hopes

May Help Them to Secure Writ
Of Habeas Corpus

WASHINGTON—The civil rights-minded Supreme Court's determined effort to protect the rights of prisoners has brought it a peek of trouble.

Many of its decisions in the past 11 years have provided convicts with new legal arguments to secure writs of habeas corpus. When such writs are granted, the prisoner or his attorney is given a new hearing in the lower court. In rare instances the court, after reviewing the record of the case, grants a new trial. In a few cases, prisoners are set free if the prosecuting attorney decides that the state no longer has a good legal case against the convicted man.

So writs of habeas corpus represent most prisoner's sole hope for a speedy release. When the Supreme Court became more and more critical of lower courts or local police officials who it felt violated a prisoner's constitutional rights, the prisoners heard about and promptly took advantage of it.

Chief Justice Vinson said recently that the Supreme Court in its last term received 455 petitions from state or federal prisoners who claimed there was something illegal about their convictions or their treatment in jail. Only 22 such petitions were received by the high court in 1930.

The prisoners often act on their own, without help of a lawyer. They frequently write informal, pencilled notes to the court. Vinson said that 96 out of 100 of them have little or no legal merit. Yet all that are received have to be given a number and full consideration. Nearly all of them are turned down, but a few each term receive an open hearing.

The habeas corpus epidemic started after the Johnson versus Zervest decision in 1938, when the court found that the trial court had not given the prisoner his constitutional right to legal counsel. The McNabb case, in 1943, provided new hope for writ-hungry prisoners. In it the court decided the convicts had been held too long between the time of arrest and arraignment. The last big habeas corpus push came after the decision in the Tony Marino case in 1947. That too involved the issue of lack of proper legal counsel.

Vinson says the burden on the Supreme Court could be relieved if the states and lower courts would see that prisoners always got a habeas corpus hearing where it was justified. But the lower courts have found their work load increased as much as that of the Supreme Court.

Judge Louis E. Goodman, of the U. S. District Court in San Francisco, in 1947 told how Alcatraz prisoners keep that court constantly busy. Between 1937 and 1947 there were 368 petitions filed by 180 inmates.

Federal lawyers refer to the Alcatraz petitioners as "the Alcatraz law school." In many prisons the convicts take correspondence courses in law. In some cities there are prisoners who act as their own attorneys and make headlines coming into court with new petitions. It gives them a trip downtown.

Judge Goodman said the habeas corpus petitions had become "a penitentiary racket." He was plainly critical of the Supreme Court for opening up new fields in which prisoners could abuse the privilege of habeas corpus.

CACHE OF HUMAN HAIR FOUND BURIED IN TREE

By LEROY SIMERLY
Central Press Correspondent
KANNAPOLIS, N. C.—A strange package hidden in the heart of a walnut tree 50 years ago has aroused the curiosity of North Carolinians.

The package contained two locks of human hair and provoked numerous questions as to its origin and intent.

Was it part of a voodoo ritual—an attempt to place a hex? Was it an expression of undying love by a romantic young couple? Was it a "cure" for baldness? Did a grief-stricken survivor take this means of preserving something as a sort of memorial to the departed?

Or did some jerk go to all that trouble just to make an inquisitive reporter—say about 1949—wear out shoe leather and patience trying to solve the mystery?

THESE and other possibilities coursed through the minds of the men who recently came across the mysterious parcel while sawing a tree estimated to be a hundred years old.

The hair, one small lock of black and another of brown, had been carefully prepared for long preservation.

It first was wrapped in brown paper. Then the paper was placed inside a piece of cloth which appeared to be homespun. The cloth had been treated with some preservative, probably beeswax.

Then, obviously to make sure the package would stay around indefinitely, the mystery lover-hexer-prankster picked about the hardest wood available—walnut and oak—for his purposes.

He bored a hole five inches deep into the walnut tree, pushed the package to the bottom, then inserted an oak plug.

THE LITTLE BUNDLE stayed there down through the years. The sturdy walnut toppled to the ground almost 20 years ago when a cyclone tore through Cabarrus county, but the locks of hair went undisturbed.

The bizarre parcel was in near-perfect condition when brought to light by J. Hugh Poplin, a farmer. By counting the rings of the tree and noting the position of the Poplin probes mystery log.

Locks of hair found in tree.

plug, it has been determined the tree is a hundred years old and that the package had been placed in it at least 50 years ago.

J. W. Jessup, State Bureau of Investigation agent, says he believed the package was a "mojo," which is a voodoo charm.

Police and others in Kannapolis also are inclined to believe it was intended as a "hex," fostered by a so-called "witch" or "root-doctor." Police Chief Ira T. Chapman points out that voodooism still is practiced among a small number of Negroes in this section.

Only two years ago, an elderly Negro woman was found guilty of shooting at a Negro man who, she claimed in court, had been "scattering roots" around her yard. Fortunately, she missed.

Barbara Manahan Is Appointed As Editor of WHS Sunburst

Barbara Manahan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Manahan Jr. of Route 1, Washington C. H., has been appointed as editor and chief of the "Sunburst," Washington C. H. High School.

Miss Manahan and a staff of 20 were picked by a committee of teachers and the high school principal.

The new editor of the yearbook, a senior at WHS, said the staff hopes to have the book out for distribution sometime during the last week of school next year.

Miss Manahan is the president of the Future Homemakers Club, former business manager of the school newspaper, "Lions Roar" for a year, a member of the Triple Trio, the National Honor Society and the Y-Teen Club.

Senior member of the "Sunburst" staff include Nancy Boylan, Ann Grillo, Mary Sue Belles, Jack Trimmer, Barbara Sue Willis, Everett Caplinger, Rebecca Burgess, Joe Mann, Robin Newhouse, Jim Strevey and Marilyn VanVoorhis.

New Advisor Named

Jack White, American problems and American history teacher at WHS, is the newly named advisor.

Members of the committee which picked the yearbook editor and her staff include Arthur Wohlers, principal; Miss Sara L. Keck, English and dramatics teacher; Ronald Guinn, assistant coach; Miss Catherine J. Trent, commercial instructor and Miss Ruth Stecher, English teacher, and Jack White.

Miss Manahan said the staff has already had a meeting and started work on the publication.

Pictures of the seniors have been taken by William Himmelsbach. Several other pictures of high school activities have been readied for the book.

Amateur Bands Face Opposition Of Music Union

NEW YORK, Dec. 9—(AP)—The American Federation of Musicians may seek to bar amateur bands from events at New York City's three big baseball parks—Yankee Stadium, Ebbets Field and the Polo Grounds.

This was hinted by the AFL Union's Local 802 yesterday, following its action to keep student bands away from college basketball games at Madison Square Garden.

The union called the games "ventures for profit." It cited a 35 percent drop in musicians' employment since last year, and said professional instead of student bands must be used for the events.

The union said it would "next turn its attention" to the baseball parks, which are used for professional amateur football games and other sports and gatherings, in addition to baseball games.

However, the big baseball clubs based at the parks rarely put on musical entertainment. A union spokesman said its plans do not involve the baseball clubs.

County Drainage To Be Surveyed

Comprehensive Check
Is Part of Census

Drainage systems on farms in Fayette County will be surveyed shortly, according to Paul J. Groeber, district supervisor for the Bureau of Census, with offices in Springfield.

Groeber said Roger Karshner, one of eight men handling this phase of the 1950 census in Ohio, will make the survey in this county.

The eight men went into the field Thursday. The Fayette County engineer's office reported that Karshner had not reported in this county as yet, however.

Karshner will examine records in the engineer's office to determine how much drainage has been accomplished in the county during the past ten years.

He will get records from the county auditor's office showing how much money and how much has been collected for ditching and maintenance during the past ten years.

Groeber conferred with census officials last week who will direct the drainage studies in Ohio, Indiana, Iowa, Michigan, Kentucky and Minnesota.

The Ohio survey will be directed by Arthur C. Jones of the Census Bureau.

The drainage survey is a part of the 1950 census—the main part of which is to start April 1, 1950.

Young Indian Held For Torture Killing

GALLUP, N. M., Dec. 9—(AP)—A young Indian was accused yesterday of trussing and dragging two fellow tribesmen behind a team of horses until "they could hardly be recognized as human beings."

Sheriff D. F. Mollica said Dan Hill, 60, and his son, Roy, 30, were dragged more than a mile over rock formations and underbrush.

The Indian accused of the dragging is Raymond Warner. He is charged with assault with intent to kill. A fourth Indian involved in the case is being sought. All are Navajos.

Mollica said the elder Hill was left unconscious across a railroad track, but regained consciousness and stumbled away before a train came.

The Sheriff said the trouble apparently resulted from the younger Hill's marriage to a Navajo widow and his subsequent conviction of statutory rape. The case involved his wife's daughter by a previous marriage.

325-pound Farmer Slain in Quarrel

PAINTSVILLE, Ky., Dec. 9—(AP)—Arnold Castle, 325-pound Johnson County farmer was slain in a family quarrel last night, and his brother, a prominent Paintsville jeweler, surrendered.

Police Chief W. B. Bailey quoted Clarence Castle, 33, as saying his six-foot, two-inch brother had forced his way into Clarence's home.

The Chief added that Clarence is awaiting arraignment on a manslaughter (correct) charge.

Arnold, 35, was intoxicated, according to the younger brother, and beat Clarence and his wife with his fists.

Bailey quoted the surviving brother, who weighs 170 pounds, as saying that during the fight he snatched up a 20-gauge shotgun and fired.

Arnold was killed by the charge.

Goodyear Installs Big Conveyor Belt

AKRON, Dec. 9—(AP)—The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. said today it has installed the world's longest single conveyor belt—10,900 feet—at a Weirton Steel Co. mine near Morgantown, W. Va.

From a washery near the mine, the belt hauls the coal through a hill tunnel to a tippie for loading on barges at the Monongahela River.

The belt is 30 inches wide and delivers some 250 tons of coal per hour. The fuel moves along at 300 feet per minute.

Goodyear said it had built the previous longest belt, 4,985 feet, for the Grand Coulee Dam project 10 years ago.

The Nation Today

BY JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9—(P)—The three western allies—United States, Britain, France—are still in a state of war with Germany. Next year they'll try to figure out how to end that. But when nations end war with another, Don't they sign peace treaties?

Not necessarily. And state department experts say the idea of making a peace treaty with Germany, if any, is far in the future. And that—pending the war but not signing a peace treaty right away—is one of the problems the allies face in ending the war.

Legal specialists of the three powers will meet next year to work out the problems, if they can.

This may explain some of it.

Germany now is divided into two main parts: eastern Germany, under Russia's thumb; western Germany, dominated by the three allies.

In their section the Russians have set up a German government. And in their western section the three allies have set up a German government.

Since the west and Russia are in a struggle over Germany, there is no likelihood any time soon there'll be a single German government with which a peace treaty can be made, covering all Germany.

But—the west has permitted, and helped, the setting up of that government in western Germany. It is dealing with it although retaining final control over it, and is even letting it have consuls abroad.

Nevertheless, the west is still in a state of war with the German government it has helped create. This puts the west in a strange position and is one of the reasons it's seeking a way to end the war.

But since the west looks upon Russia as a threat to all Europe and Russia has troops in eastern Germany, should the west try to keep troops in western Germany as an outpost against a Russian move?

The west has to think of it. But how can the west, which now controls western Germany, that's another of the problems in declaring the war ended.

Here's another: The west has dismantled and even shipped out of Germany a number of plants which it took as reparations, or payment, for the damage done by Germany in the war.

If the west and Germany made a peace treaty it would certainly cover dismantling and reparations and who owed whom what. There'd be agreement on that before the treaty was signed.

But the allies may continue the dismantling program for some months. How then can the war with Germany be ended unless there's an end to dismantling? An what will the German government, after the war, have to say about the dismantling already done?

In short, how can there be any legal justification for the dismantling unless it is justified—by agreement—in a treaty that is not now being talked of?

To make a long story short: here is the west, trying to deal with western Germany in a friendly way, and yet still at war with Germany.

The act of ending the war could be done by the president or by a resolution of Congress. Of course, events may take such a turn that a treaty never is made with Germany, although war is ended.

Americans Live Longer

NEW YORK—(P)—Population statistics for the United States shows that approximately 6.8 percent are 65 years of age or over compared with 2.7 percent in 1860. It is estimated that at the current rate of increased age the ratio will have gone to 13.2 percent at the end of the century.

About 330,000 British and French troops were evacuated to England in the epic allied retreat from Dunkerque in May, 1940.

Friends of the Land

by Jonathan Forman, M. D.
Columbus, Ohio

LIVING OFF THE LAND

All of us live "off" the land. The farther off it we are, the more dependent upon it we are. As Edward J. Condon, executive assistant to the president of Sears Roebuck & Company, and president of FRIENDS OF THE LAND has recently put it "It is we who live off the farm who will suffer most in the final analysis. After all, the commodities that make our industrial wheels spin, are the surplus that the farmer has to sell over and above his own and his family's needs. If the worst should happen, a decrease in farm production would hit the cities first. The farmer could draw in and with a few acres of even poor land, a cow, a garden, a few chickens and some fresh meat to kill and cure, he could conceivably scratch along. Not very well, but as well perhaps as his grandfather or his great-grandfather did.

"Let us—all of us," Mr. Condon urged, "look at the waste and destruction of our basic natural resource as our concern. Let us realize when we stand at the foot of a furrow on a rainy day, that the soil-bearing water is not running off the top of a cornfield. Let us realize that it goes far beyond that and finds its origin in the vaults of the various banks of your community, where it is draining away your security just as surely as though it were planned that way. Let us never look at a gully and say—'Poor Joe Doaks should do something about that.' Maybe Joe is only a tenant! Maybe that farm is one in which your insurance company is investing your premiums against the day that you or your family will need them. Let us understand that gully continues through the very foundation of our economic structure until it cracks the strongholds of our national security. Only when this type of understanding permeates the consciousness of all our people will we be on the way to a permanent civilization."

Mr. Condon along with other great merchants and industrialists is beginning to see that it is only the good earth that can make us prosperous and healthy.

Liquor Bottle Use Out at Ohio State

COLUMBUS, Dec. 9—(P)—Liquor bottles used as candle holders are taboo in Ohio State University fraternity houses today.

The order to get rid of the "ornamental candle holders" was issued yesterday by Myrlin H. Ross, University fraternity adviser, to the council of fraternity presidents.

"We must make it clear to outsiders that alcohol is not being used in the houses," he said. He referred to the slaying Nov. 12 of Jack T. McKeown of Norwood after a Delta Tau Delta fraternity party.

Diplomatic Club Held over China

Major Question Now One of Recognition

By CLARKE BEACH

WASHINGTON — The United States is wielding a small stick against the Communist Chinese government by failing to recognize it. But a high diplomatic authority says non-recognition can't last forever.

In the long run, he says, the withholding of recognition is not a powerful lever. U. S. recognition gives prestige and strength to a new government, but once other governments have accorded, a nod from the U. S. would not mean so much as it would now.

By withholding recognition at this time, the U. S. hopes to make it clear to the Chinese Reds that it doesn't intend to accept on an equal diplomatic footing any nation which doesn't fulfill its international obligation. The reds' mistreatment of Angus Ward and other American citizens was enough in itself to disgust American diplomats.

To obtain American recognition, Secretary of State Acheson has said, the Chinese Communists must not only live up to their international obligations. They also must control their whole country, and the Chinese people must at least acquiesce in their rule.

For generations the American government has required that new governments meet those tests before they are recognized. Thomas Jefferson first formulated the viewpoint that recognition doesn't mean approval—only that the U. S. acknowledges existence of the regime.

"It is recognition of a set of facts, nothing more," says Secretary of State Acheson. "We may have the gravest reservation as to the matter in which it has come into power. We may deplore its attitude toward civil liberties. Yet our long-range objectives in the promotion of democratic institutions may, in fact, be best served by recognizing it and thus maintaining a channel of communication with the country involved."

Recognition of a new government has advantages for both sides. That's the reason some other countries are reported to be eager to recognize the Chinese Reds as soon as possible. It opens the channels of diplomatic intercourse. Before recognition envoys of foreign powers have no immunity, no diplomatic status. They are treated like private citizens and can be of only limited use to the governments they represent. If an envoy of a country you don't recognize turns up in your country, you can deport him as an alien illegally in your country.

Legal Technicalities
An unrecognized government can't be prosecuted before international tribunals in case it fails to live up to treaties and other obligations. One government doesn't have access to the courts of another nation unless it is recognized. It couldn't sue to enforce contracts and to obtain damages for confiscation of property. Under such circumstances, a government finds it hard to make loans or to write contracts for purchases.

The authority to recognize a new government rests with the president. This has been standard procedure for many years, although at times it has been argued that the power was held by the president and Congress.

At any rate Congress must acquiesce, for no ambassador can be accredited until the Senate has confirmed him. In China's case, the administration has promised that the president would not extend recognition until after the state department had discussed the matter with the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

In 1913, when the question of recognizing the new Chinese Republic came up, the issue was hotly debated. A group in Congress felt that the president was delaying too long and a resolution was introduced declaring that the new government was recognized. But it never passed.

Italian Ants 'Quit' Church Attend Communist Festival

Back-sliding ant flaunts emblem of new political allegiance.

By A. G. THOMSON
Written for Central Press and This Newspaper
MOSCOW PROPAGANDA must be potent—if news from Italy is any indication. Latest to follow the Kremlin party line are—of all creatures—ants!

This year, a species of ants which for hundreds of years past have arrived in their millions to die in nuptial flight near the shrine of the Madonna of the Mountain of the Ants in Italy, departed from age-old custom and, forsaking their tradition, united and died at, of all places, a Communist festival at a village on the mountainside.

That was merely an unusual act of an unusual and little-known species of ants.

The wandering ants, although completely blind, strike terror into the microscopic hearts of insects in their neighborhood when they begin to march.

In columns sometimes 13 feet wide and 1,400 feet long, they plod steadily on in a black, liquid-seeming mass, tearing and devouring whatever seemingly petrified insects remain in their path.

Even crickets, which could presumably hop out of danger, seem paralyzed, and remain to allow sightless savages to tear off their hind legs to prevent their escape, then methodically tear them to bits.

Comparatively large snakes are stripped of their flesh in about 15 minutes, and the tiny legions march inexorably on, conquering their world in the brush.

Ants have another side to their nature. Large numbers of other insects enter ant nests, and a certain few of them are royally entertained, the ants feeding them from their own food store as long as they care to remain. These "guests" keep the ants free from parasites which sometimes grow on them.

Some ants in Mexico build roadways around nests on the ground. They clear away all the rubble and clip the grass short on tracts about eight inches wide, and sometimes extending up to 500 yards, forming a neat driveway from the nest to their hunting grounds that would rival the product of modern engineering.

Ant communities contain spinners, carpenters, paper-makers, and all the corresponding trades of a human community. Their bakers even bake bread, carrying out loaves as large as a pepper-corn for the sun to bake.

Smart as ants are, though, silverfish beetles have no trouble in putting one over on them. These little creatures stand by while one ant feeds another from her crop, and as the food is passing between them he jumps up, smashes the morsel and runs off.

By the time the ants disengage from the embrace they adopt when feeding each other, the little chyster is far away pulling his stunt on two other victims.

Egg Price Drop Heads Shopping News for Week

Cost of Most Meat About Same—Some Vegetables Down

(By The Associated Press)
Further reductions in the price of grade A eggs topped the food shopping news this week.

Some stores cut pork items a little more, but most meats, poultry, dairy products and produce items held about unchanged from last week-end.

Coffee prices also steadied and many storekeepers said their coffee sales had dropped below normal as consumers apparently started using up excess supplies they bought during the "scare runs" a few weeks ago.

Eggs were down two to eight cents a dozen in thousands of competitive stores across the country for the second week in a row. At least one chain in the New York area said its egg prices were now the lowest in nearly three years. Eggs To Go Lower

And the agriculture department predicted that egg quotations "will continue to drift lower through the flush season of egg production in the first half of next year."

The department's Bureau of Agricultural Economics said a record October egg production (3,749 million eggs) contributed to the price decline during the past two months.

Continued high output, plus a new farm law for 1950 which puts even the maximum price-support below the 1949 support level, promise prices lower for the coming spring than last year.

Meat traders reported a marked upturn in demand for pork, and credited the long downturn in prices. Some reductions ranging as high as 10 cents a pound were reported this week but they were said to be mostly in stores which were slower to trim their prices last week and were just catching up with competitive adjustments. Pork prices as a whole were leveling off.

Demand Gratifying
"This sharpened demand is gratifying," said one federal market analyst. "People are wise to go after the meat that's in biggest supply—and that means pork right now."

Lettuce prices steadied as shipments fell off after last week's skid. Growers in the Phoenix and Yuma districts of Arizona and in California's Imperial valley were reported planning to "disk under" 30 to 50 per cent of the lettuce acreage scheduled to be harvested prior to Dec. 16, in a move to trim burdensome supplies.

Tomatoes and snap beans were reported scarce in many marketing center. Their prices held to last week's relatively high levels.

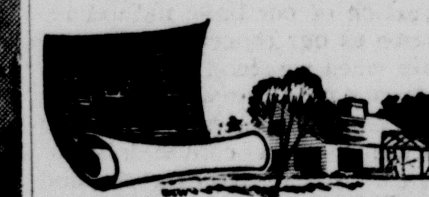

The Dun & Bradstreet wholesale food price index this week declined three cents from a week ago to $5.76, and was nine per cent below the year-ago level of $6.33. The figure represents the total wholesale cost of a pound each of 31 foods in general use.

Girls Won't Be Herded As Dates

WASHINGTON — (P) — Sessions of the National Interfraternity Conference lasted right up to the last minute before the grand ball, leaving no time for delegates to call for blind dates the arrangements committee had arranged.

So the arrangements committee made another arrangement. The girls would be called for in groups by other fraternity men. "Oh, no," said the girls. "We don't want to be herded."

So the arrangements committee arranged another arrangement.

The girls were asked to get themselves to fraternity houses, where they would dress and be met by their dates. That went over better. "But taking the date home is an individual problem," said the committee.

Drivers Impatient Trailing Red Cars

NEW YORK—(P)—Do you dislike having other motorists jockey past you while trying to drive at a safe and steady pace?

If so, don't buy a red car, advises Howard Ketcham, color and design engineer. A test of motorists' reactions showed that drivers are more impatient when trailing a red car because red is the most stimulating color—hence the greater urge to pass. Cream and yellow colors are also stimulating, black, blues and greens without yellow undertones are the colors less inciting to the driver in the following car, Mr. Ketcham reports.

Police Finally Catch 13th Runaway Raccoon

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. — (P)—Police finally got their mitts on a long-sought fugitive who escaped with 12 others last summer.

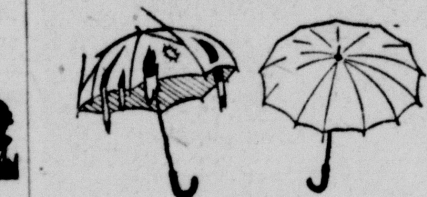

His mates had all been recaptured shortly after their break for freedom from a railway express car on their way from Florida.

Six cops, four cruisers, and a passerby converged on Number 13, after he was spotted in a tree five blocks from the downtown business district. Now number 13, too, faces a gloomy future. The raccoon resumed his interrupted journey to a coon hunters' club at St. Alban's, W. Va.

High School League May Be Expanded--or It May Be Torn Up

By FRITZ HOWELL
COLUMBUS, Dec. 9 —(P)—The six-team Ohio scholastic conference meets Saturday in Cleveland — and it isn't sure whether it's due to lose a member or gain a few.

Warren, Mansfield, Canton McKinley, Alliance, Toledo White and Massillon make up the loop presided over by J. O. (Heinie) Beck of Warren — and a tough circuit it is in all sports.

Beck said Hamilton, Middletown, Springfield and Steubenville high schools had been invited to send representatives to the session, and that "all have expressed interest in joining."

However, state champion Massillon may drop out of the circuit.

Charles (Chuck) Maher, affable tutor of the Tigers, is a bit up in the air because the other five schools nominated the league champion — Mansfield's Tigers — as state champion. Chuck's team was beaten by Mansfield, but the state's sports writers decided Massillon deserved the title, Mansfield having lost an earlier game.

Threatens To Quit

Mather is telling one and all that unless the league drops its plan to name the loop champion as state title-holder, he'll withdraw from the circuit. He says nominations in the future may stir up more internal trouble.

Everyone "got into the act" this year when the league nominated Mansfield, with an 8-1 record, as state champion over Massillon and Canton McKinley, which had 9-1 marks.

Mather declared the league should name its own champion, and admitted Mansfield was the title holder, but he said claiming a state-wide title was a bit presumptuous. He pointed out, that there are 578 high school teams in the state, and only six of them are in the Ohio scholastic conference.

Chuck probably has a good talking point there, too, for no one would let the Pacific Coast, Big Ten, Southern, Ivy League or any other conference claim the national collegiate crown for its champion year after year.

All Tasted Defeat

All members of the six-team loop were defeated this fall, some of them more than others, while Cincinnati Purcell, Circleville and several other teams were unbeaten and untied. Until some way is devised to let the leaders meet in a playoff series, there'll always be arguments about the championship — the best solution is for every team which believes it deserves a share of the laurels to rise up and stake its claim. One claim is as valid as the rest.

Season won't last records, points scored by and against, and the type of opposition encountered must be taken into consideration in naming a champion — and that's what the Associated Press member sports editors do when they select the top ten and name the victor.

Conferences may claim all the titles they care to, but the sports writers in the poll will continue to designate the recognized champ.

After their confab Saturday night, the scholastic conference delegates will witness the Cleveland Brown-San Francisco 49er All-America Conference championship game Sunday in Cleveland.

Reds Sell Lamanno

CINCINNATI, Dec. 9 —(P)—Sale of catcher Ray Lamanno to Seattle of the Pacific Coast League was announced last night by the Cincinnati Reds.

Miami Dominates All-Mid-American

BY FRITZ HOWELL
COLUMBUS, Dec. 9 —(P)—Miami's Redskins, although short of their Mid-American Conference championship in a rousing Thanksgiving Day game by Cincinnati, dominated that loop's all-star football team for 1949.

Coach Woody Hayes' Oxford crew picked up seven of the top 22 plays, while the Cincinnati champions, coached by Sid Gillman, had to be content with five.

The Associated Press selections, made with the aid of the Mid-American coaches and sports writers, are recognized as official by the circuit headed by Commissioner Dave Reese of Dayton.

Tightest race in the league was that between Tom O'Malley, Cincinnati's sensational passer, and Miami's versatile Mel Olix, for the quarterback spot. O'Malley won it by an eyelash, and as signal caller won the right to direct the ball-toting of halfbacks Johnny Pont of Miami and Len Corbin of Western Reserve, and fullback Jack Bickel of the Redskins.

Two Clean Sweeps In Merchant Loop

League sweeps were turned in by both the Thumas and Ohio Bell boys in Thursday night's Merchant League bowling at Bowland.

The Thumas blanked Vic Smith's Kute Kiddies and the Telephone crew whitewashed the Pepsi Colas.

Powers was high for the Thumas with a 561, but W. Thompson, anchor man for the defeated Kiddies, topped that with a 566.

The Blues emerged from the Pennington Bakers family feud with a two-out-of-three victory over the Reds. The Blues dropped the opener, but they won the last two when B. Henry got the range of the head pin and smacked the maples for 226 and 221 to bring his three-game total up to 606.

After losing the opener to the Producers, the Med-O-Pure Dairy-men came back to win the last two. The tally sheet for the final game got lost in the shuffle, but there was no argument about who was the winner.

Not Even Mayor Of Columbus Gets Rose Bowl Tickets

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 9 —(P)—Mayor James A. Rhodes of Columbus, O., lost his fight yesterday to get more Rose Bowl tickets for Ohio State University fans.

He and Brutus Hamilton, general manager of athletics of the University of California, conferred on the possibility, but the mayor was unsuccessful.

The Rose Bowl seats 103,000, and Ohio State was allotted 10,700 tickets, all of which will go to students, faculty members, and alumni.

The mayor is attending the National AAU Convention. He is president of the organization.

High Score Team Loses Two Games

Wise's Clothiers came through with the only three-game win in Thursday night's Industrial League bowling at Bowland, but two other teams outscored them.

The Clothiers blanked the Barg-er Brothers and racked up 2534 pins in doing the job.

Warner's Servicemen, however, added up 2635 (no handicap) while winning the first and last games from the Jeffersonville Merchants. Ray Warner was top man with 565.

Moore's Boys hit the pins for a total of 2589, the second high team series of the evening, but they lost the last two games of their match with the Greenfield Merchants.

Henry's Coleman took the last two games from the Dairy-men.

SYNOPSIS
Aristocratic old Judge King and his socialite wife, Elizabeth, are welcoming home from abroad their son-in-law Major Frank King. A gay party is in progress at Kingsridge, their home. Only the "best" people are present. Elizabeth has seen to that! Observing her smart, lovely granddaughter Susan Park, Mrs. King wonders what this strange child wants of life. Why does she not respond to the advances of handsome young eligible Timothy Grant who has tried so hard to win her. As unexpected and most unwelcome guest arrives with the King's grandson, in the person of a dashing Air Force Captain named Gerry. An old family skeleton rattles as he enters the room. The King women realize that this stranger is weaving a spell over Susan, as together they dance.

CHAPTER FIVE
SUSAN could not collect her thoughts after Gerry's kiss. She felt violated and unwillingly angry to admit it since it made him less than she wanted him to be. She felt alarmed, too, but not so much by him as by the powerful upsurge of unfamiliar desires within herself. She had never known before she was like this. She was suddenly a stranger to herself. Yet a stranger with whom she must surely and soon get acquainted.

He was saying in some surprise at himself, "I really couldn't help it, Susan."

And then the far door of the conservatory opened and she heard her father's voice calling her name.

Frank called and then waited in the dim light listening. He did not like the role that had been so suddenly thrust upon him. He was too freshly out of the Army, a man's world, to have accustomed himself again to the forgotten subtle battles of a society where women ruled supreme. Besides, his daughter was not his daughter at all. Not, at least, the daughter he remembered.

For the Susan he had left had been a bony-kneed, awkward, tempestuous child whom he had tenderly loved and easily understood, while the poised and beautiful young woman who now called him Frank so pleasantly yet so casually—as if, actually, he were no relation—had him at a distinct disadvantage. He did not know her, and her manner indicated that he could let the fact ride since she had no need of him in the management of her affairs. The result was a quarrel within himself between his instinctive desire to protect her youthful vulnerability and his impotent sense of inadequacy before her serene and shining self-confidence.

However, plainly this was a family crisis in which he must take a decisive part. That much he had gathered from his mother-in-law's urgency and his wife's support.

port of it. Susan was with a man she should not be with. She was dancing with him, and she must be stopped. "Get her," Audrey had said in her quick tense way. "Get them both. I'll call Father. They can go into his study until we have a chance to find out..."

He had tried standing pat. It was his nature to think and act slowly and he hated being pushed into anything.

"He looks all right to me," he had said. But Audrey had given him a little push. "Oh, Frank! It's Gerry! Don't you remember Gerry? He's impossible! They mustn't... well, get him. That's all."

Gerry. Gerry who? He could not recall. But the name had carried a vague remembrance of some family disgrace that had been hushed up years ago. Gerry. Well, it didn't matter, actually. The point was there had been something wrong with him and now here he was, turned up like the proverbial bad penny, and, in a way as yet obscure, threatening Frank's lovely daughter.

The realization had galvanized him to action.

He stood at the moment, hearing the echo of Susan's prompt reply to his call. Had there been a note of relief sounding in it? Had the fellow been bothering her and had he arrived just in the nick of time? Aware that he was probably being over-imaginative and melodramatic he still could not help the swift dislike that the question kindled in him.

But the girl who came out of the shadows toward him bore herself with a cool composure that belied his mistrust and even made it seem a trifle foolish.

"Did you want me?" she asked, her eyes forthright, her voice holding, perhaps, a secret amusement at his parental watchfulness. And then with a casual gesture toward the man beside her, "This is Gerry, Frank. Or do you know?"

"Yes, I know," he did not offer his hand. With his head thrust forward between the great breadth of his shoulders, he appeared aggressively antagonistic. Yet he could never alarm. His face below his shock of thick, bristling gray-white hair, was too unexpectedly young for all its heaviness, too open, too placid, his bright brown eyes too kind. He said, "We didn't expect you."

Gerry bowed slightly. "I realize that. I hope my appearance hasn't been overly upsetting."

The fellow was quick. Frank sensed a hard heartiness in him, too, and a complete indifference to anyone's regard or sensibilities. He straightened, his eyes snapping sparks, and his next words held the crispness of the Major addressing the Captain.

"Not in the least. It's simply that we can't give you quite the attention you no doubt deserve. However, if you'll come with me to the study, the Judge..."

Susan's hand fell like a lead on her father's arm. "Thank you. But we'd rather dance."

Frank looked at her, a feeling of helplessness smothering him. "But your grandfather..." he began.

"My grandfather simply wants to insult him," Susan said, her husky voice low but clear. "He simply wants to get rid of him. So do you. So does everybody in the family. But you see, I don't."

And with a little nod she slipped past him and opened the green-house door. "Okay, Gerry," she said, over her shoulder. "Let's go."

But Gerry stood there, smiling and at ease as he faced Frank.

"With such a champion," he said, "why should I hesitate? I'll go see the Judge. I'd like to."

"I'll go, too, then!" Susan cried quickly.

It was Gerry, not her father, who said no.

"I remember the way," he offered.

Frank hesitated. He had no reason to accompany the fellow. No one had intimated that he was a thief or a desperado. Yet he did not like the idea of his prowling about the house alone. As he hesitated, Gerry spoke again.

"Unless, of course, you feel that the family silver wouldn't be safe?"

"Gerry! Don't talk like that!" Gerry turned toward her. "My dear, what you don't realize is that I appear before you people with only my past to recommend me. A disgraceful past, as I told you. 'But not that disgraceful!'"

He shrugged.

Susan came swiftly back to the two men, her eyes enormous in her indignation. "Go by yourself, Gerry," she told him. "Frank, you stay with me. There are some things we've got to get clear about and now's a good time."

The study was a low-beamed, pine-paneled book-lined room in a wing down a few steps from the main body of the house. As Gerry entered it, there was a fire burning in the fireplace and in its dancing light he caught the twinkling shine of brass, the dull gleam of polished leather, the quiet glow of many colors in the large Oriental rug.

The Judge was waiting for him in a deep chair and rose to greet him with his hand extended.

Pomona Grange Choose Officers

Team to Install Slate Next Year

A new slate of officers for next year has been picked by the Pomona Grange.

At the regular meeting of the organization Thursday night at the Farm Bureau building here, the members chose Harry Raines for their Master during the coming year.

Others elected were: Kenneth Arnold, overseer; Mrs. Winnie Johnson, lecturer; Roscoe Smith, steward; Richard Hunter, assistant steward; Mrs. Ethel Wilson, chaplain; Homer Wilson, treasurer; Miss Juanita Roberts, secretary.

Loren Johnson, gatekeeper; Mrs. Rachel Raines, Ceres; Miss Leona Hewitt, Pomona; Mrs. Janice Creamer, Flora; Louise Ritter, lady assistant steward; Roy Coll, new executive member. The University Grange degree team will install all Grange officers on January 13.

During the meeting, Mrs. Howard Osborne received the fifth degree obligation from Master Harry Raines.

County Deputy Chester Jones announced that the conferring of the sixth degree would be held in Columbus Monday.

In the drawing held, Ed Jones won the turkey and Nathaniel Tway was awarded the duck.

Tickets for the raffle were sold to provide money for new regalia which was worn for the first time at the meeting.

It was announced that the "Older Rural Youth" of Fayette county, will sponsor a dance Wednesday, December 28 in Memorial Hall.

Kids To Hold Band Practice

Monday night the sounds from a brass band will be reverberating in Eagles Hall again.

That is the time when county elementary and junior high school children will hold their second junior band practice.

At the last session two weeks ago, Rolland Chase led 50 youngsters through the fundamentals of band playing.

This time he hopes to be able to start the kids off on playing some pieces.

Once again, parents are urged to bring their children to the practice which begins at 7:30 P. M.

A completely voluntary project, the junior band is being promoted by the Fayette County School Bandboosters.

Rev. C. H. Detty Back From Week in Hospital

Rev. C. H. Detty, pastor of the Pilgrim Holiness Church on Sixth Street, today is back at his home here convalescing after a week in Mt. Carmel Hospital in Columbus for observation and treatment.

Rev. Detty collapsed during services at the church just a week ago and was rushed to the hospital. A heart ailment was blamed for his condition.

Mrs. Detty said her husband "is feeling some better, but is not able to be up and around yet." She said she did not know when he would resume his preaching and other work.
